Dog Training: Hyperscalers' AI Labs Fetching New Workloads with Datadog; Raising Street-High Target But Just Getting Started, Prepare for Liftoff

Datadog delivers an exceptional Q1 print that reinforces our positively-biased preview thesis (note here) and the structurally bullish framework we have laid out across our recent work. Q1 results come in well ahead of Street and guidance across every key item, and strengthens our conviction in Datadog as a vibrant category leader well-positioned to compound at premium growth rates. Key Takeaways: 1) Strong Q1 Beat with Fourth Consecutive Quarter of Revenue Acceleration and Broad-Based Strength. Q1 total revenue growth of +32.2% y/y lands well above Street consensus by ~6 points of growth, marking a fourth consecutive quarter of meaningful outperformance and a further acceleration from +29.2% in Q4, +28.4% in Q3, and +28.1% in Q2. The upside reflects continued broad-based usage acceleration across both AI-native and non-AI customer cohorts, with Datadog noting growth accelerated in each month of Q1 and these healthy trends have continued into April. Q1 PF operating income of $223.5M (22.2% margin) exceeds Street consensus of $204.5M (21.3% margin), with the beat driven primarily by revenue upside. Go-to-market execution was exceptional, with new logo annualized bookings setting a new all-time record by a significant margin and more than doubling y/y, while new logo average land size also set a record and more than doubled y/y. Billings growth accelerates to +37.2% (from +34% in Q4 and +30% in Q3), while RPO of $3.48B is up +51%, with cRPO growing in the mid-40s, both reflecting the increasing mix of multiyear deals signed in the quarter. Free cash flow of $289M (28.7% margin) comes in ahead of Street consensus at $271M (28.3% margin). On product metrics, Datadog ended Q1 with ~33,200 total customers (+9% y/y) and ~4,550 $100K+ customers (+21% y/y) driving ~90% of ARR, with total ARR now exceeding $4B. Product breadth continues to expand, with 85% of customers using ≥2 products, 56% ≥4, 35% ≥6, 20% ≥8, and 11% ≥10, all up meaningfully y/y and improving q/q, with the 10+ products bucket nearly doubling from 6% a year ago. Notably, the trailing 12-month net dollar-based retention rate stepped up to the low-120%'s (from ~120% the prior three quarters), with gross retention remaining stable in the mid-to-high 90%'s. 2) Hyperscaler AI Research Lab Wins Mark Category Expansion from Inference to Training; Silicon Heterogeneity an Emerging Tailwind. Datadog lands two large new deals this quarter, a 7-figure and an 8-figure annualized deal, with the AI research divisions at two of the largest hyperscalers, both of which are using Datadog to optimize hyperscale GPU training workflows including via GPU Monitoring on large parallel GPU grids. We view these wins as a significant development as Datadog had previously characterized training as largely outside its addressable AI opportunity scope given the limited number of training-scale companies and the artisanal, research-driven nature of those workloads, with the company's AI opportunity framed as primarily inference-driven. With training now scaling to production-grade reliability requirements across an increasing number of companies, the company explicitly notes that training is becoming a viable market for Datadog, and notably, we would advise investors to expect additional hyperscaler

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

Datadog is a leading provider of monitoring and security for public cloud, private cloud, and on-premises applications, with these solutions delivered via a comprehensive, unified platform. The company's technologies integrate and automate infrastructure monitoring, application performance monitoring, and log management to enable seamless observability, cloud security, and developer use cases. The company sees a large portion of the ITOM market as its target, which Gartner estimates will represent a $53B opportunity by 2025. The combination of its large market opportunity, along with rapid growth, positive PF operating margin, and FCF generation, put it in an elite category. This market includes both legacy on-premise and private cloud environments as well as modern public cloud environments, which are expected to grow faster than the ITOM market as a whole. While the legacy environments include more competitive displacements, the cloud infrastructure space is primarily greenfield. We believe Datadog is the leader in its market and the preferred tool among DevOps professionals, providing a single-pane-of-glass experience across dynamic operating environments. As a result, we see Datadog as a direct beneficiary of the secular trends of digital transformation, which is driving an increase in workloads, as well as cloud migration, which is driving a higher proportion of workloads to public clouds, positioning it well in the drive toward modernization.

AI lab relationships over the coming quarters as the broader set of frontier AI companies faces the same operational pressures around fragmented internal tooling and engineering productivity. We continue to view Anthropic as likely a particularly meaningful AI-native customer for Datadog given the rapid Claude Code ramp driving Anthropic's own infrastructure scaling, building on the 8-figure annualized new land we previously flagged as likely being Anthropic. A separate but related tailwind is the increasing heterogeneity at the silicon layer (NVIDIA GPUs alongside Google TPUs, AWS Trainium and Inferentia, Microsoft Maia, and other custom AI accelerators), which Datadog characterized as a trend that plays in its favor given that the more heterogeneous the underlying infrastructure becomes, the more value customers derive from a unified observability platform that can tie GPU-level telemetry together with the rest of the application, infrastructure, and user-facing layers. Beyond the headline hyperscaler wins, the AI-native customer cohort continues to broaden and diversify rapidly, now including 22 customers spending $1M+ annually (up from 19 in Q4 and 15 in Q3) and 5 customers spending $10M+ annually (a new disclosure), spanning leading companies in foundational models, code generation tools, and vertical-specific AI solutions. 3) Non-AI Core Re-Accelerates to Mid-20s with Record GTM Execution and Broad-Based Strength. Revenue growth across the broad base of non-AI native customers accelerated again in Q1 to mid-20s y/y, up from 23% in Q4 and 19% in the year-ago quarter, the strongest level disclosed and reinforcing that Datadog's growth profile is broad-based rather than narrowly AI-driven. The acceleration reflects sustained cloud migration, expanding product adoption across customers of all kinds, and the increasing role of AI as a tailwind to existing customer workloads. Datadog also delivered the strongest quarter of sequential usage growth from existing customers since Q1 2022, alongside an all-time record for sequential ARR added in the quarter, with the company noting that even excluding the largest customer landed in Q4, Q1 still set an all-time record for sequential ARR added. Datadog CEO & Co-Founder Olivier Pomel emphasized that Datadog continues to outpace competitors at scale and gain share, with underlying drivers being platform expansion, the continued consolidation of open-source and point solutions onto the Datadog platform, and the successful ramp of prior sales capacity investments without sacrificing productivity. 4) Guidance Raised Across the Board with Exceptional Q2 Guide and FY26 Revenue Raise of ~$240M. At the midpoint, Q2 total revenue growth is guided to ~30% y/y, ~10 points above Street consensus growth, representing the largest Q2 vs. Street consensus delta in recent memory, exemplifying the confidence it has in the durability of trends seen in Q1 and into April. Q2 PF operating income is guided to $230M, or a 21.4% margin, $27M above Street consensus. At the midpoint, FY26 total revenue is raised by $240M, nearly 5x the size of the Q1 beat vs. guidance of $50M, to $4,320M or 26.1% y/y, and PF operating income guidance is raised $100M to $960M, or a 22.2% margin. The FY26 revenue raise of 7 points of growth in a single quarter is comparable to the cumulative raise cadence Datadog has historically delivered across an entire year (FY25 was raised by ~$203M / ~8 points cumulatively from initial guide to final guide given at Q3'25 earnings). The new FY26 revenue guidance of $4,320M at the midpoint now sits ~$230M (~7 points of growth) above Street consensus, while PF operating income of $960M sits ~$77M above Street consensus. Importantly, the implied 2H guide embeds ~22% y/y growth, which we view as continuing to embed conservatism given Q1 actual growth of 32% and Q2 implied growth of ~30%. Component guidance for the year includes net interest and other income raised to ~$170M (from ~$140M previously), cash taxes of $30-40M, and capex plus capitalized software of 4-5% of revenue. Net/net: We see Datadog as a vibrant category leader in a market that is benefiting from the relentless modernization trend, along with a highly attractive financial profile and history of execution. However, we maintain a balanced view on the uncertain macroeconomic and geopolitical environment. Datadog's shares trade at a premium revenue multiple and FCF multiple, which we think is justified to some extent given the long-term scaling of the business with superb efficiency and its strong positioning within an attractive market benefiting from digital transformation and cloud migration. Remain OW; Dec-26 PT to $320 from $200.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

Datadog (Overweight; Price Target: $320.00)

Investment Thesis

Datadog is a leading provider of monitoring and security for public cloud, private cloud, and on-premises applications, with these solutions delivered via a comprehensive, unified platform. The company's technologies integrate and automate infrastructure monitoring, application performance monitoring, and log management to enable seamless observability, cloud security, and developer use-cases. The company sees a large portion of IT Operations Management as its target market, which Gartner estimates will represent a $53B opportunity by 2025. The combination of its large market opportunity, along with rapid growth, positive PF operating margin, and cash flow generation, put it in an elite category. This market includes both legacy on-premise and private cloud environments as well as modern public cloud environments, including multi- and hybrid-cloud, which are expected to grow faster than the IT Operations Management market as a whole. While the legacy environments include more competitive displacements, the cloud infrastructure space is primarily greenfield. We believe Datadog is the leader in its market and the preferred tool by DevOps professionals, providing a single-pane-of-glass experience across numerous and dynamic operating environments. As a result, we see Datadog as a direct beneficiary of the secular trends of digital transformation, which is driving an increase in workloads overall, as well as cloud migration, which is driving a higher proportion of workloads to public clouds, positioning it well in the drive toward modernization.

Valuation

Our $320 Dec-26 PT is based on ~72x EV/CY27E uFCF using $1.56B of uFCF for CY27E. Our multiple for DDOG shares is at a premium to the Fast-Growing Infrastructure Software Vendors comp set, which trades at ~61x on average. We believe Datadog's premium multiple is warranted given its faster most recent quarter revenue growth relative to the comp set (32% vs. 27% for comps), as well as its viable AI growth vectors that position the company to capture incremental demand as enterprises scale AI workloads.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Risks to the Downside

- Native Hypercloud DevOps Tools. While there are various public cloud options, the market is currently dominated by Amazon's Amazon Web Services (AWS), Microsoft's Azure, and Google's Google Cloud Platform (GCP) platforms. These platforms feature native DevOps observability and security tools that compete with Datadog. Should these services become more attractive and/or cost competitive for customers, the company may face increased competition and price pressure, potentially impacting growth and profitability.
- Acute Execution Risk. Datadog has grown rapidly, both in terms of revenue and head count, increasing head count 156% in 2020 compared with 2019 and 147% in 2021 compared with 2020. As a result, maintaining the company's growth curve requires excellent execution and ramping of sales reps as it supports its best-in-class sales efficiency. While the company has a history of excellent execution, should any challenges emerge in its execution, growth and margins will likely suffer and investor sentiment erode, likely resulting in deceleration and multiple contraction.
- Macroeconomic Gyration. Recent macroeconomic uncertainties have caused many

IT customers to scrutinize deals more carefully, defer modernization products, and/or optimize or reduce spending. Should the environment worsen and customers further defer or reduce IT spending, Datadog's growth curve may be negatively impacted, with the company potentially particularly affected given its exposure to SMB customers.

Initiated coverage Oct 14, 2019. All share prices are as of market close on the previous business day.

The chart(s) show J.P. Morgan's continuing coverage of the stocks; the current analysts may or may not have covered it over the entire period. J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.

Coverage Universe: Murphy, Mark R: Adobe Inc (ADBE), Akamai Technologies, Inc. (AKAM), Cloudflare (NET), CoreWeave (CRWV), Datadog (DDOG), DocuSign (DOCU), DoubleVerify (DV), Dropbox (DBX), Dynatrace (DT), Figma (FIG), HubSpot (HUBS), Intuit (INTU), Microsoft (MSFT), Monday.com (MNDY), Oracle (ORCL), Paycom (PAYC), Salesforce Inc (CRM), ServiceNow (NOW), Snowflake (SNOW), Twilio (TWLO), Workday (WDAY), Zoom Video (ZM), ZoomInfo (GTM)

J.P. Morgan Equity Research Ratings Distribution, as of April 04, 2026

	Overweight (buy)	Neutral (hold)	Underweight (sell)
J.P. Morgan Global Equity Research Coverage*	51%	37%	12%
IB clients	83%	79%	74%
JPMS Equity Research Coverage*	49%	39%	13%
IB clients	94%	93%	85%

*Please note that the percentages may not add to 100% because of rounding.

Percentage of subject companies within each of the "buy," "hold" and "sell" categories for which J.P. Morgan has provided investment banking services within the previous 12 months.

For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution rules only, our Overweight rating falls into a buy rating category; our Neutral rating falls into a hold rating category; and our Underweight rating falls into a sell rating category. Please note that stocks with an NR designation are not included in the table above. This information is current as of the end of the most recent calendar quarter.
